Washington, May 29 (UPI)— Senate supporters of a tighter Congressional rein on the Central Intelligence Agency may try to enlist the backing of its former director,
Allen W. Dulles,
as their drive
approaches a floor showdown.
Wednesday.
Dulles, who opposed broader Congressional
scrutiny when he headed the CIA, is now understood to believe that such scrutiny might quell concern and build public confidence in the agency's highly secret operations.
